Interesting Notes

En-Joie Golf Club was the first corporate-built golf course in the country. It was built for the Endicott Johnson workers, which was a large shoe manufacturer that employed over a thousand individuals in the Endicott area. En-joie was redesigned due to flooding that has occurred in the past years. The course was built on an apple orchard; however, currently there are not any apple trees left on property.

Previous events hosted by facility: 1971-2005 BC Open, 2007-2015 Dick's Sporting Goods Open

Course architect/date: Ernest E. Smith, 1927
